General Comment

Please refrain from restricting my ability to sell puts and covered calls within my 401K or IRA accounts. These types of options are actually safer than owning the stock outright. I have had sufficient training to be able to trade these options and they are beneficial in that they increase the amounts in my retirement accounts with less risk. I realize that since my accounts will be worth more than otherwise, I'll be paying more in taxes upon withdrawal. That's just the name of the game.
